THE PROBLEM

Good landscapers lose work they never priced

Tenders priced at night
after a full day on site

Most landscapers can only bid 2 to 3 a month capacity, not capability

The rest get skipped work lost on volume, not price

2-3

tenders a month is all most landscapers can price themselves

Roughly 1 in 10 tenders wins. Volume decides who eats.

Open platforms: every subbie sees the same job, win rates run low

You can't control the win rate. You can control how many you submit

~$7.7bn

Australian landscaping industry — and growing, with commercial outpacing residential

Same win rate. Four times the tickets in the draw.

THE PLATFORMS WE WORK ACROSS

We price tenders from the platforms you already use

Same 95% accuracy, whichever platform the tender comes from.

The tender package, decoded

- Takeoff Measuring quantities from the drawings: areas, volumes, counts
- BOQ Bill of quantities: every scope item, quantified and priced
- Scope of works What you're pricing — and just as important, what you're not
- Inclusions & exclusions The list that decides who wears the surprises
- Pricing schedule The builder's format. Get it wrong and the bid gets set aside

Every one of these is where tenders are won or lost before price is even compared.
